PURPOSES

As Ptolomeus claimed, and some others shared in thinking, space is a set of dazzling spheric extracts. Consequently, we amplify our suspicion that the suits of a deck of cards originally not only had a third dimension (and why not a fourth?), but also that they were conceived in different colors from those we have today. Therefore, we ought to request with the utmost vehemence and justice, the return of the use of green color to the symbol of clubs, in name of the absolute truth in the roots. A request that will not be expressed in a more deep form in the present work due only to the total lack of such pigments. Also knowing that the gait and consequently the way a person moves in space (to which the exercise of dancing the fox-trot leads) brings us to the most definitive conclusion: "you can believe that a palm tree from the mangrove doesn't live in the sand of Copacabana".
